PHILADELPHIA _ Iyanla Vanzant, an Emmy Award-winning life coach and best-selling author, will speak at the virtual Pennsylvania Conference for Women on November 11th, joining an acclaimed lineup that includes actor Viola Davis and author Tara Westover.

Once living as a mother on welfare in the Brooklyn Projects, Vanzant now is a celebrated writer and public speaker, with 15 published books and a breakout hit reality television show on the Oprah Winfrey Network.

At the virtual Pennsylvania Conference for Women, she will share her insights on healing, at a time when women are reeling from the economic and social impacts of COVID-19 and as the nation faces a historic time of reckoning on racial justice.

The virtual Conference – presented on a highly interactive and innovative platform – will give attendees opportunities to engage with speakers and each other, support women-owned businesses in a virtual exhibit hall and participate in career coaching and resume reviews.

Vanzant's body of work includes six New York Times best-sellers, CDs, television, radio and stage performances. She is the host and executive producer of the award-winning "Iyanla: Fix My Life," a top-rated reality show on OWN: Oprah Winfrey Network, where she uses a non-nonsense approach to help people gain inner peace and healing.
